Aim of Competition

The essay competition on pollution and global warming aims to raise awareness and encourage critical thinking about these pressing environmental issues. It seeks to inspire innovative solutions and promote environmental education, engaging students and the community in collaborative efforts. By highlighting the importance of policy and advocacy, the competition empowers participants to become advocates for change and influence policymakers. Additionally, it provides a platform to showcase talent and creativity while fostering a sense of global cooperation and responsibility. Ultimately, the competition strives to cultivate a generation of informed individuals dedicated to protecting the environment and addressing global warming.

Summary of Event

Four students participated in an essay competition, each selecting pollution as their topic. The judges highly appreciated all the essays for their quality and insight. Simranjeen Kar, a B.Sc. 3rd Year student, won first place. Prakriti Agarwal, also from B.Sc. 3rd Year, secured second place, and Namandeep Kaur, another student from the same class, achieved third place. Dr. Reeta Sachan, Head of the Department of Botany, served as the convener of the jury panel. Dr. Soorajpal, Head of the Department of Mathematics, and Dr. Neelam Manola, Assistant Professor in the Department of Botany, were members of the jury. At the end of the event, Dr. Atul Upreti, Head of the Department of Zoology, presented a vote of thanks to the participants and jury members for their valuable contributions. Winners and participants were felicitated with certificates. The competition highlighted the participants' understanding of pollution and their ability to propose thoughtful solutions, making the event a significant success.
